The Emergency Services Program, contained within the Department of Clinical Health Professions at RUC, will create a new Emergency Services minor at Radford University, designed to provide students the tools necessary to handle basic emergency situations while exploring the field of Emergency Services. The program is applicable to students in any major at Radford University. The Emergency Medical Technician credentials obtained will serve as enhancements to the students resume as well as life skills. The minor will also satisfy the "R" and "L" areas of the REAL curriculum initiative.

Effective Date: Fall 2021

Reason for requesting an alternative effective date:

Emergency Services Minor (22 credit hours)

Introduction

The Emergency Services minor is ideal for any undergraduate student looking to explore the field of emergency services while obtaining life-saving skills that will benefit the student personally, as well as professionally. Students will learn the skills necessary to become an Emergency Medical Technician and practice those skills in the hospital and prehospital settings through clinical rotations. The Emergency Services minor will satisfy the "R" and "L" designations of the REAL curriculum.
