University Profile

One of the Commonwealth of Virginia's premier educational institutions, Radford University is home to some 9,000 students from across the U.S. and around the world. This year marks a milestone as the university celebrates its Centennial (1910-2010). From its noble beginnings as a teacher's college, the Radford of today is in the truest sense a global, comprehensive university.

Known for its small class sizes, rigorous academics, strong emphasis on service to others and a picturesque 191-acre campus, RU provides an education that is focused on developing the well-rounded student whose education occurs both in and outside the classroom. An outstanding Honors Academy and LEAD Scholars Program provide many academic and leadership opportunities for the best and brightest of student-scholars.

Because of its mid-size, the university provides its students a winning combination of broad opportunities associated with a large university and highly personalized relationships considered the hallmark of a small institution.

Through its six academic colleges, the university offers 67 degree programs at the undergraduate level and 20 fields of graduate study, including 18 options/specializations and seven post-baccalaureate certificates. Over the past 100 years, Radford has become known for meeting growing needs of society; that commitment is stronger than ever as demonstrated by the recent addition of a master's in occupational therapy and allied health doctoral programs in psychology, physical therapy and nursing practice.

In 2010 Radford was named one of the nation's Top Up-and Coming Schools in the U.S. News and World Report's Guide to America's Best Colleges and Universities and a Best College in the Southeast by The Princeton Review.

The campus community supports a culturally diverse student population through more than 200 clubs and organizations. The recently established Center for Diversity and Inclusion helps provide a learning environment that respects diversity and encourages individuals to appreciate and value the differences that makes them unique.

Radford University operates an outstanding NCAA Division I athletic program as a competitor in the Big South Conference. Almost 400 students participate on 11 men's and eight women's teams. Known as the Highlanders, the university's teams compete in an outstanding athletics complex that includes high quality fields, courts and stadiums. In addition, the university provides the entire student body with opportunities for sports and recreation through 18 sports clubs and more than 400 intramural teams.

Advancements continue each year in the expansion and renovation of the campus. Fall of 2008 saw the opening of the state-of-the-art Covington Center for Visual and Performing Arts and in August 2009 the university completed a major renovation of Young Hall, making it one of the most technologically advanced academic buildings in the United States. In summer 2010, construction began on a $44 million signature building for the College of Business and Economics, and plans call for the development of a $32 million student fitness and wellness center in 2011.

Radford University also stands out for its commitment to sustainability and responsible stewardship of economic, social and environmental resources and in 2010 received recognition from two national groups for building a sustainable and environmentally-friendly campus. The Princeton Review named the university to its first Guide to 286 Green Colleges, and the Blue Ridge Outdoors Magazine included Radford in its honor roll of Cool Schools as one of 12 greenest colleges and universities in the southeast region of the U.S.

Mission

Radford University serves the Commonwealth and the nation through a wide range of academic, cultural, human service and research programs. First and foremost, the university emphasizes teaching and learning and the process of learning in its commitment to the development of mature, responsible and well-educated citizens. RU develops students' creative and critical thinking skills, teaches students to analyze problems and implement solutions, helps students discover their leadership styles and fosters their growth as leaders. Toward this end, the university is student-focused and promotes a sense of caring and of meaningful interaction among all members of the university community. Research is viewed as a vital corollary to the teaching and learning transaction as it sustains and enhances the ability to teach effectively. Radford University believes in the dynamics of change and has a strong commitment to continuous review, evaluation and improvement in the curriculum and all aspects of the university, so as to meet the changing needs of society.

Presidents of Radford University

Dr. John Preston McConnell	1911-1937
Dr. David Peters	1938-1951
Dr. Charles Martin	1952-1972
Dr. Donald Dedmon	1972-1994
Dr. Douglas Covington	1995-2005
Ms. Penelope W. Kyle	2005-Present

Penelope Ward Kyle is Radford University's sixth, and first female, president. She came to the university in 2005 after more than 30 years of experience in state government, the corporate and legal world and higher education. She received her Juris Doctorate from the University of Virginia Law School and later earned her MBA from the College of William and Mary.

Upon assuming the presidency, Kyle immediately focused on leading an initiative to become one of the top 50 masters universities in the nation. The university was named one of the nation's Top Up-and-Coming Schools in the U. S. News and World Report's 2010 Guide to America's Best Colleges. In addition, the campus has seen a number of major developments, including the opening of a state-of-the-art visual and performing center, renovations of three major campus buildings and the addition of doctoral degrees in psychology, physical therapy and nursing practice as well as a master's in occupational therapy.

Under President Kyle's leadership, RU is undertaking an ambitious campaign of construction and renovations that includes buildings for the College of Business and Economics and the College of Science and Technology, new residence halls, a student fitness and wellness center and an extension to the Hurlburt Student Center.

Dr. John Preston McConnell accepted the presidency of the State Normal and Industrial School for Women in 1911 and worked two years without pay, planning buildings and programs and hiring faculty and staff, while continuing his duties as Dean and Professor at Emory & Henry College. He received both his Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from Milligan College and held a doctorate from the University of Virginia.

Dr. David W. Peters became president of Radford State Teacher's College in 1937 as the country dealt with difficult economic times and a world war loomed on the horizon. The former Director of Instruction for the Commonwealth of Virginia was a graduate of Roanoke College and held master's and doctoral degrees from Columbia University. A focus during his years was to upgrade the curriculum and diversify academic offerings.

Dr. Charles K. Martin, Jr. began his tenure in 1952, and during his 20-year presidency oversaw a dramatic increase both in enrollment and academic offerings as well as a major expansion and renovation of campus facilities. He received both undergraduate and graduate degrees from Southwest Missouri State College and held a doctorate from Yale. Before coming to Radford, he taught at Mary Washington College.

Dr. Donald N. Dedmon was appointed in 1972, coming from Marshall University where he served as acting president and executive vice president. Under his leadership, Radford became coeducational, moved to university status, increased enrollment dramatically and began competing at the NCAA Division I level. A graduate of Southwest Missouri State College, he also held master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Iowa.

Dr. Douglas Covington came to Radford in 1995 following presidencies at several institutions, including Cheyney University. Under his leadership, Radford developed a number of partnerships with the business community, conducted its first Capital Campaign and constructed a major soccer and track stadium. A graduate of Central State University, he held both master's and doctoral degrees from Ohio State University.

A 17-member Board that was created under Virginia state law governs Radford University. Fifteen of the members are appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth and serve four-year terms. Each year the Board selects a student and a faculty member to serve as advisory representatives on the governing body. The Board convenes four times annually in regular session, usually in February, May, August and November. The third meeting, usually held in August, is considered the first meeting of the year and is designated the Annual Meeting of the Board. Meetings are held in the Martin Hall Board Room.

Supporting Her Alma Mater

Mary Ann Hovis, Class of '65, receives a standing ovation for her role as a member of the Board of Visitors and as a leader in alumni relations and fundraising. This year marks her completion of two terms on the Board, including service as rector. She also has served as a tri-chair for each of Radford University's two major capital campaigns, is a former president of the National Alumni Association and has provided leadership for a host of other councils and groups, including the Northern Virginia Alumni Chapter. In 1995 Hovis was named Outstanding Alumnus and in 2000 received the Foundation's Lifetime Achievement Award. A Board of Visitors resolution honoring the Southwest Virginia native noted that because of her "Radford University is a better, stronger, and more successful institution of higher education."

Technology at RU

Radford University maintains a robust technology infrastructure to support the computing needs of students and faculty. RU is committed to the integration of technology into the learning environment. With the growth of mobile computing, Radford has built a strong wireless and mobile computer infrastructure to promote anytime anywhere learning. Over 90% of Radford University faculty have a mobile computer. Wi-Fi connections have been installed throughout campus providing wireless network connectivity in all campus buildings. RU also prides itself on providing state of the art multimedia resources for faculty and students in campus classrooms.

Radford University provides the following technology services:

- High speed Internet connectivity utilizing a 300 Megabit connection to MATP in Northern VA through Virginia Tech and a 200 Megabit connection through Verizon.
- Internet2 connectivity through MATP.
- Redundant Gigabit Ethernet connectivity between campus buildings.
- Residence Halls with Cable TV, two 100 Mbits/s Ethernet connections and wireless access in every room.
- 514 wireless access points providing 802.11 Wi-Fi connectivity throughout campus.
- SSL VPN connectivity for secure connections from off campus.
- File Server Storage, Web Hosting, and Exchange e-mail for all students and faculty.
- MyRU web portal, providing a single place to access campus technology resources.
- Blackboard CE (WebCT) for 24-hour access to web enhanced classes.
- Adobe Connect (Breeze) for web conferencing and online classes.
- iTunes University participation.
- 765 workstations available in computer labs and public areas for student use.
- A Microsoft Campus Agreement providing students with access to Microsoft Office and Microsoft Windows.
- 20 HDCP compliant all digital classrooms in the Young Hall facility.
- 170 classrooms with a complete multimedia podium including computer, laptop connection, wireless presenter data projector, VCR/DVD, and visual presenter.
- 39 rooms with data projector, wireless presenter and VCR/DVD.
- The RU campus includes 6 classrooms, 6 conference room and 3 portable videoconferencing units utilized for Distance Education and on-demand videoconferencing.
- RU maintains 7 classrooms and 2 portable videoconferencing units located at the Roanoke Higher Education Center, Southwest Virginia Higher Education Center, and Woodrow Wilson Rehab Center in Staunton.

University Upgrades Information System

In January 2007, the University launched a major multi-year project designed to review, replace and enhance the university's administrative information systems. These core systems include undergraduate and graduate admissions, financial aid, registration and records, student housing, advancement and fundraising, financials, budget, human resources and the current portal. Together, these systems provide the business processing, data retrieval, reporting and self-service functions critical to providing essential services to faculty, staff, students, prospective students, alumni and the entire university community.

The University chose SunGard Higher Education's Banner administrative systems suite to replace the current systems. Implementation phases of Banner began in June 2007, and will continue through Fall 2010. When complete, the following components of the SunGard Banner system and supporting ancillary systems will be operational:

- Banner Finance and related self service components
- Banner Student and related self service components
- Banner Human Resources and related self service components
- Banner Advancement and related self service components
- Banner Financial Aid and related self service components
- Operational Data Store
- Cognos Reporting
- Workflow
- Enterprise Data Warehouse
- Luminis Portal (MyRU portal)
- Banner Xtender (Imaging) Solutions for two business areas
- LDI for e-Learning (WebCT integration)
- LDI for e-Procurement (integration for the Commonwealth's e-Procurement system, e-Va)

New College of Business and Economics Building

The College of Business and Economics is getting a new $44 million, 110,000-square-foot home that will feature the latest in educational technology and financial research capabilities. According to Dean Faye W. Gilbert, the building is called a transitional design and is scheduled for completion by fall 2012. “We consciously wanted the building to incorporate RU’s traditions and at the same time convey the clear impression that this is a university that is moving forward.” The project is the result of a public-private partnership in which the Commonwealth of Virginia will invest $34 million and RU will raise the remaining $10 million. “This new building will make a very bold, very confident statement about what the world can expect from Radford University and its College of Business and Economics,” said President Penelope Kyle.

Success and Service Go Hand in Hand for Eminent Professor

Year after year Dr. Donna Boyd has been honored for her success in the field of anthropology. In 2006 she received the prestigious U.S. Professor of the Year Award in the category of Outstanding Master's Universities and Colleges. Given by The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, the award recognizes faculty who "excel as educators and influence the lives and careers of their students."

That same year she was named one of Virginia's Outstanding Faculty for superior accomplishments in teaching, research and public service by the State Council for Higher Education.

During 2009 she became only the second forensic anthropologist in Virginia and the only one affiliated with a university to be certified by the American Board of Forensic Anthropology. The co-director of RU's Forensic Science Institute is now able to accept national forensic cases and be called as an expert witness in court testimony. Her current work with the Western District of the Virginia Medical Examiner's Office involves taking DNA samples from human remains and entering the information into an FBI database in hopes of matching those remains to some of the nation's 100,000-plus missing persons.

In January 2010, her work took her to earthquake-ravaged Haiti where Boyd says, "I've never seen so much suffering in one place at one time." Having been deployed by the U.S. government as a member of a Disaster Mortuary Operational Response Team, Boyd helped conduct search and rescue efforts as well as identify remains of Americans and Haitian-Americans. Although a heart-wrenching situation, Boyd said she found hope in completing a mission of service to help the suffering victims.

Whether in the classroom or the field, Boyd has a wealth of experiences, insight and compassion to share with her students.

Creative Scholar Publishes New Book

Geography professor Grigory Ioffe celebrated his 20th year at Radford University with the publication of Russia and The New Abroad, a collection of essays about his native country and 11 former Soviet republics. The book, his tenth, is published by McGraw-Hill as part of a Global Studies series, which provides students with comprehensive background and current information shaping regional cultures and countries of the world today.

SCHEV Outstanding Faculty Award

The Outstanding Faculty Awards are the Commonwealth's highest honor for faculty at Virginia's public and private colleges and universities. These awards recognize superior accomplishments in teaching, research, and public service.

Outstanding First-Year Student Advocates

Mr. Michael A. Dunn

New Student Programs and Services

2003

Each June an army of faculty, staff and student assistants meet with hundreds of new students and their families to teach them everything there is to know about living and learning at Radford University. Mike Dunn, a nationally recognized student affairs professional, has provided leadership for RU's New Student Programs and Services since 1993. Among his many honors over the years was his selection as a First-Year Student Advocate by the National Resource Center for the First-Year Experience and Students in Transition housed at the University of South Carolina.

Dunn's colleagues nominated him because his programs have made a significant impact on RU. He was one of 10 professionals to receive the award based on the innovation, creativity, acceptance and institutionalization of his office's programs as well as their success in making a difference for students. One of the programs is University 100: Introduction to Higher Education, a first semester course that focuses on academics and social and personal issues and is taught by faculty and upper-class students. It has made such an impact on the success of students and student retention that Dunn says "it has become part of the fabric of the university."

Staff Awards

Each year Radford University holds an employee recognition luncheon each spring to honor faculty and staff for their length of service to the institution. In addition, a staff member is honored with a Presidential Employee Service Award. The 2010 recipient is Scott Schull, a staff member in the Division of Information Technology. An employee for 15 years, Schull was recognized for his long-time commitment to quality job performance and the extraordinary contributions he made in the recent renovation of Young Hall, which is now considered one of the most digitally advanced academic buildings in the United States. This year a total of 110 employees plus 30 retirees were honored during the event.

Alumni and Career Services

Radford University's Alumni Association

Established in 1920, the Association has been a major force in shaping the destiny of the university and today serves more than 65,000 alumni living in all 50 states and 64 foreign countries. Alumni chapters formed early in the association's history as a way to bring alumni together to share experiences, support and strengthen the university through public and private resources, recruit students and develop a professional and leadership network.

Graduate Placement Data

While Spring 2009 represented the worst recruiting season in the nation for the past 20 years, students at Radford University fared better than expected. Of the students who responded to a Radford Career Services survey six months post-graduation, 87.1 % had either entered full-time employment or were attending graduate school.

Employment and Graduate School Attendance Rate

Importance of Practical Experiences that Supplement Classroom Learning

We also found that, of the RU students who were employed, 64.2% of our graduates had reported they had an internship-type experience during their collegiate experience. This reflects the national growing prominence of a paraprofessional experience as a key component to hiring decisions.

For the last eight years a selective group of students has maintained an equity portfolio for the Radford University Foundation. Called the Student Managed Investment Portfolio Organization (SMIPO), the group makes all of the buying, selling and administrative decisions for the fund, which is currently valued at $400,000.

Co-founded by finance professors Steve Beach and Clarence Rose to provide students with an opportunity to gain real-world experience in investment management, the organization has been funded annually by the RU Foundation. "A solid framework on top of their high-quality finance and business education affords these students the independence to really take responsibility for the fund's performance," said Beach.

The students' consistent success is being recognized. For the fifth time in six years, SMIPO was invited to present at the International Reinventing Investment Strategy Education Symposium. In addition, the group was named RU's 2010 Outstanding Student Organization.

Sponsored Programs and Grant Management

Marking a 20% increase over the last fiscal year, Radford University brought in the highest amount of award funding on record. (This includes fiscal year 2004, when a database change added two additional weeks and hundreds of thousands more in funding to be added to that year, rather than the next.) Eighty awards were received, totaling $7,540,478 during the year ended June 30, 2010. The success may be seen in the following graph:

MILLION DOLLAR CIRCLE

Dr. Laura Jacobsen in Mathematics achieved ranking in the One Million Dollar Circle. This tradition recognizes individuals who have authored competitive sponsored project(s) for Radford University that resulted in awards in excess of at least one million dollars.

PROPOSAL SUBMISSIONS

Members of the faculty and staff submitted 111 proposals for sponsored agreements, totaling more than $29 million, an increase of 46% in comparison to the prior year. The number of proposal submitted remained constant from the prior year. A breakdown of the primary purpose of these submissions is listed below:

	Dollar Amount	Percent	Number of Submissions	Percent
Instruction	$12,935,893	44%	33	30%
Public Service	$6,197,597	21%	40	36%
Research	$10,112,285	35%	38	34%

*Note: Instruction includes several state codes (Instruction; Academic Support and Financial Aid)

New proposals accounted for 62% of submissions; 6% were continuations, 17% were renewals, and 15% were supplements to existing awards.

2009-2010 University Grant Recipients

Deadlines are three times a year for the three large programs: October 1, February 1, and April

1. Applicants for Quick Response and Traveling to Potential Sponsors programs may submit at any time.
2. Seed Grants provide funds to conduct preliminary studies leading to major research grants or grants with a research component. Proposed sponsors must allow indirect cost recovery in the budget:

Mark Cline, Assistant Professor, Biology
Rodent Appetite Neurobiology
Pursuing funding from the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes of Health. $32,716

Tracy Cohn, Assistant Professor, Psychology
Male Survivors of Childhood Sexual Abuse: The Mediating Influence of Self-Compassion
Pursuing funding from the National Institutes of Health. $15,115

Elizabeth McClellan, Assistant Professor, Geology
Initial Breakup of the Rodinian Supercontinent: Evidence from the Lower Mount Rogers Formation, Southwestern Virginia
Pursuing funding from the U.S. Geological Survey. $19,945

Alexei Orlov, Assistant Professor, Economics
Intellectual Property Protection, Innovations and Economic Growth
Pursuing funding from the National Science Foundation. $5,660

Linda Scott-Webber, Professor, Interior Design & Fashion
Preliminary Work on Understanding Interactive Learning Environments
Pursuing funding from the Institute of Education Sciences. $17,027

Isaac Van Patten, Professor, Criminal Justice
Project on Neighborhood Crime Dynamics (PNCD): Effects in a Small Southern City
Pursuing funding from the National Institute of Justice. $19,656

Virginia Weisz, Assistant Professor, School of Nursing
Use of Complementary and Alternative (CAM) and Conventional Therapy for the Treatment of Anxiety and Depression in Rural Southwest Virginia Residents
Pursuing funding from the National Institutes of Health. $14,419

Proposal Development Awards provide reassigned time, summer money, or the hiring of assistance to write and submit a research proposal or a proposal for a project with a research component. A funding agency which will pay indirect cost recoveries must be identified.

Ellen Armbruster, Assistant Professor, Counselor Education Face of Counseling in Cuba as Practiced through the Pastorate
Pursuing funding from the National Science Foundation and the Christopher Reynolds Foundation. $3,337

Quick Response Grants assist members of the faculty and staff to be able to secure externally funded grants and contracts when there is not enough time to go through the Proposal Development Award process. These short-term awards are primarily to purchase time for a principal author and/or assistant to write a competitive award for a specific Request for Proposal (RFP) without much lead time.

Carla Corroto, Assistant Professor, Sociology
Diversity in Architecture Schools: The Connections Among External Criticism, Internal Attrition, and Institutional Responses
Pursuing funding from the National Science Foundation and the Graham Foundation.
$1,196

Cynthia Cunningham, Director, Nursing Clinical Simulation Center
Evaluating Innovations in Nursing Education
Pursuing funding from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. $5,000

Mentoring Assistance Program (MAP) is a program to fund Seed Grant and Proposal Development projects with the addition of an experienced individual to help faculty members reach a new level within grants and contracts. Funds for mentoring may be sought for a variety of purposes, including research design, a specific research technique, developing or managing a multi-institutional project, or proposal writing.

Traveling to Potential Sponsors funds have supported travel for Radford University faculty and staff to speak to program officers about proposal drafts in person for a number of years.

Honors Academy

The Honors Academy is a Center for Excellence at Radford University that serves as a focus for student-faculty collaborative scholarship. Honors courses are fulfill requirements in the Core Curriculum and are taught by faculty in a highly interactive and engaging environment. Honors Sections are limited to 20 students, and may involve field trips, and special in-class activities well suited to a highly interactive environment. The Honors Academy also sponsors „wireless“ sections of some of its courses in which the professor designs the course with the knowledge that each student will attend class with a wireless laptop or tablet computer. Faculty in these sections have integrated online test submission and grading, visits to internet sites, WebCT, Breeze Live, cross campus collaboration and other applications into their classroom teaching. Our faculty have led panel discussions about using tablet computers in a wireless classroom at state and regional conferences, and are updating a booklet of “Best Practices in Wireless Teaching” in the Spring of 2008. Honors students “contract” classes in their majors for honors credit by working on individual projects dealing with the subject matter in the class. Often these projects substitute for other class requirements.

The Honors Academy also fosters student faculty collaborative scholarship throughout the campus and sponsors travel for dozens of students and faculty mentors to national, regional and statewide conferences each year. Each Spring, the Honors Academy also hosts our campus’ annual Undergraduate/Graduate Student Engagement Forum. Demonstrating that student/faculty collaborative scholarship is becoming a hallmark of a Radford University education, over 200 students, mentored by 50 faculty made more than 175 presentations and performances in the Forum last Spring semester (2010). Only a few years ago there were less than 100 such presentations. Thirty or more graduating Highlander Scholars who are required to present the results of their Honors Capstone Projects are among the participants at each Forum. Presentations included original dance performances, musical performances, independent study projects, study abroad projects and undergraduate laboratory research carried out by students as a result of their work with faculty. During the final evening of the Forum, recipients of the Faculty/Student Collaborative Grants Program presented the results of their work together. Another feature of the Forum is the organization of special topics symposia in Biology, Sociology, Forensic Sciences, Chemistry, Psychology, Arctic Geophysics and Gender Studies. The Forum also hosted the Second Annual Highlander Literary Festival.

A mutually supportive academic and social environment for Honors Academy members is maintained in Floyd and Perry residence halls where individuality is encouraged and academic commitments and responsibilities are respected. Approximately one third of the 180 residents are upperclassmen while the other two-thirds are new freshmen. Many sections of the Honors Core Curriculum courses are taught in the basement classrooms of these buildings which have a full complement of multimedia equipment and a wireless computing environment.

The Honors Academy also hosts an annual banquet to honor Graduating Highlander Scholars and recognize new Highlander Scholars. In contrast to 5 only 7 years ago 40 candidates for Graduation in 2010 invited their parents and faculty capstone mentors for an early evening meal and celebration. Faculty mentors have prepared short statements about their student collaborators which are read aloud as the students are called to the podium to receive their gold stoles signifying status as a graduating Highlander Scholar. The Honors Academy itself continues to grow as the total number of participants presently sits at approximately 500. This coming Fall semester we will add approximately 185 new freshman participants with another 75 joining the Academy at the beginning of Spring Semester. It is anticipated that within the next year or two that we will graduate 50 – 60 Highlander Scholars per year.

New Student Programs

The goal of all orientation programs is to begin to facilitate the academic and personal transition of new students and families into the institution. Opportunities are provided for parent and student interaction with other new students, families, current students, faculty and staff. Information sessions addressing the institution's academic expectations, developmental and social opportunities and resources are also presented. The main objective during all programs is to academically advise and register new students for the upcoming semester's courses. Faculty advisors and undergraduate student leaders offer new students guidance and reassurance during the time they are on campus. Through the orientation program for new freshmen, students and families develop an understanding of the intellectual, cultural and social climate of the institution.

New Student Orientation

New Student Orientation is Radford University's two-day summer program for new undergraduate freshmen and their families. Faculty advisors and Orientation Assistants, chosen from undergraduate student leaders, work closely with students and Parent Orientation Guides (POGs), also student leaders, to serve the families.

New Student Orientation Attendance (2009)
Students:	1,369
Parents:	1,845
Total:	3,214

Transfer Orientation

Transfer Orientation is Radford's one-day program for new transfer students and families. Held during summer months, the program allows students to receive appropriate attention to their transitional needs. New students are led by Transfer Assistants, undergraduate student leaders who themselves transferred to RU.

Transfer Orientation Attendance (2009)
Students:	505
Parents:	500
Total:	1,005

Learning Assistance and Resource Center

The Warren P. Self Learning Assistance & Resource Center (LARC) is an all-inclusive academic support service open to the entire University community. Both graduate and undergraduate students are invited to make appointments for free tutoring in math, statistics, accounting and finance, science, writing, reading, and basic learning and test-taking strategies. The LARC also works collaboratively with other departments to enhance the overall learning experience for the students of Radford University.

The LARC tutoring force is largely comprised of undergraduate and graduate students from various disciplines. Tutors undergo extensive training based on the College Reading and Learning Association's international certification standards. Tutors aid students with writing assignments for any discipline, while math/statistics and science tutors help students understand formula, grasp abstract concept, and reinforce problem solving skills. Additionally, students can improve and maximize their learning skills, reading comprehension and test taking strategies. LARC tutors work individually with students, facilitate workshops and study groups and represent the LARC during official University-sponsored programs.

Inspired by a holistic approach to tutoring, LARC staff members are trained to make referrals if they detect other issues at play in students' lives. Becoming a tutor is an excellent way for students to increase their leadership skills, assist peers with academic challenges and build their resumes.

The LARC encourages Radford University students to address their academic challenges through proactive measures. Students are empowered to succeed by taking responsibility for their own education and learning. With a learner-centered approach, the LARC staff and tutors seek to meet each student's academic needs.

Student Government Association (SGA)

The SGA is the highly organized and active legislative and service organization with approximately 50 student leadership positions. Comprised of eight councils and committees, the SGA is also responsible for electing and appointing approximately 150 positions on Internal Governance committees and councils. The Dean of Students office staff advises the SGA Executive Council, Senate, Cabinet, Staff, and Off-Campus Student Council as well as overseeing and advises other SGA councils and committees.

Multicultural and International Student Services

The purpose of the Office of Multicultural and International Student Services is to develop cultural awareness, understanding, and a sense of belonging among Radford University students. The office provides academic and social support systems for students from various backgrounds and lifestyles. The Black Student Affairs Council (BSAC) and International Student Affairs Council (ISAC) of the Student Government Association (SGA) are administratively advised by the Director and Assistant Director.

159 students from 59 different countries attended RU during the 2009-2010 academic year.

Student Health Services

Student Health Services provides basic healthcare to all-registered students on an outpatient basis at an on-campus facility. Open Monday through Friday, the Center is equipped to provide diagnosis and treatment for most of the health problems encountered by students as well as follow up care and referrals to a network of local specialists.

RU Student Health Services:

- Has been accredited by the Accreditation Association of Ambulatory Health Care, Inc (AAAHC) since 1999.
- Serves over 13,000 students annually.
- Provides a 24/7 Nurseline call service.
- Provides annual flu clinics and other immunizations. During 2009-2010, the Health Center provided 554 H1N1 vaccinations to students and university employees.
- Includes 1 Physician of Record, 2 Nurse Practitioners, 1 Physician Assistant and 5 Licensed Practical Nurses*

 All medical staff members are licensed by the state of Virginia and all providers are nationally certified.*

Student Counseling Services

Student Counseling Services is a place where students can talk privately and confidentially about issues which are of concern to them with a licensed mental health professional. Students frequently seek assistance with issues such as stress, anxiety, depression, relationships, lack of motivation and family concerns, to name a few. Services are free of charge to currently enrolled undergraduate and graduate students at Radford University. Confidentiality is strictly maintained for information shared in counseling. Services include:

- Short term, mental health services to RU students
- Individual, couples and group counseling
- Consultation services
- Psychiatric medication management by a nurse practitioner and part-time psychiatrist
- Referral services available when specialized services or longer term therapy is needed
- Crisis services during office hours; after hour emergencies are referred to ACCESS (New River Valley Community Services Board) or CONNECT (Carilion Health System).
- Programming/outreach on relevant mental health issues as available
- Staff includes: two full-time, licensed mental health professionals, two part-time licensed mental health professionals, one doctoral in psychology intern, a part-time consulting psychiatrist, a nurse practitioner and a health educator.

The Disability Resource Center

Radford University is dedicated to providing equal educational opportunities for otherwise qualified students with documented disabilities. The Disability Resource Office (DRO) provides reasonable academic accommodations and services to facilitate the university's goal of removing physical, attitudinal, and technological barriers which might infringe upon any individual to fully participate in the University experience. Accommodations are provided based on review of current documentation and upon completion of a student interview. Accommodations shall not alter the technical standards of a program or the integrity of Radford University.

The types of disabilities accommodated include but are not limited to: Learning disabilities, Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD), vision, hearing, speech, psychiatric, physical, neurological, medical, and temporary. Sixty-five percent of the students served have ADHD, LD or a combination of both. The most common accommodations are: extra time on tests, quiet room for testing and note taker.

Student Support Services

Student Support Services (SSS) is a grant-funded program operating under the umbrella of the Federal TRIO programs. The office is designed to assist Radford University students who are considered at-risk to attain a baccalaureate degree. The U.S. Dept. of Education, which funds the university program, defines the at-risk population as students who are first generation and/or low income as well as those who have a documented disability.

In past years SSS has received $292,909 annually to accommodate 160 students. Participation is limited and dictated by grant specifications. Over the past 16 years, more than 2,560 RU students have been served through this program.

University Athletics

NCAA Athletic Programs at RU

At Radford University student athletes participate in 19 varsity sports, eight for men and 11 for women. Since the 1974-75 season when men's sports were first offered on a varsity level, the program has grown dramatically. That year men's basketball and tennis joined women's tennis, basketball and volleyball to form the heart of the Highlanders' growing athletic program. A year later, the university added its first men's soccer team.

Under the leadership of Athletic Director Robert Lineburg, the university today offers men's and women's basketball, cross country, golf, soccer, tennis, indoor and outdoor track; field hockey, swimming & diving, softball and volleyball for women, and baseball for men.

In 1983 Radford helped found the Big South Conference and has played a prominent role in the 27-year-old league ever since.

Big South Conference Female-Athlete of the Year

Kristen Shifflett capped off a year of honors with the distinction of being named the 2009-10 Big South Conference Female Student-Athlete of the Year. The junior shortstop is the first softball player to garner the award. The former walk-on helped guide Radford to a 38-17 overall record, 16-2 Big South mark and the club's second straight Big South Championship and first-ever NCAA Regional finals appearance in 2010. Along with being named Big South and the Virginia Sports Information Directors State Player of the Year, she received the National Fastpitch Coaches Association's First-Team All-Region accolades.

Shifflett, who has been voted First-Team All-Conference all three years of her career, is Radford's all-time leader in home runs (36) and runs scored (150), and is the first player in school history with 200 career hits prior to her senior year. The psychology major is from Charlottesville, Virginia, where she graduated from Monticello High School.
